

Critical Ethnic Studies in Ohio: A Gathering of Faculty and Graduate Students

Organized by Pablo Mitchell, Oberlin College and Theresa Delgadillo, OSU

Hosted by Center for Ethnic Studies

Friday, January 25, 2019

Barnett Collaboratory, Sullivant Hall, The Ohio State University

Nearest Parking is Ohio Union Visitor Garage. We will provide parking stickers/permits for participants to use upon exit.

We are circulating PDFs of select chapters to discuss, but we encourage all to access and read other portions of the two books from which we are excerpting. We will also remain flexible on schedule, spending more or less time on what the group leans toward.

Proposed Agenda

- 10:00 a.m. Introductions and Coffee

- 10:30 a.m. Remembering Luis Leon, a brilliant Latinx and Religious Studies scholar who passed away in 2018

- 11:00 a.m. Discussion of We Demand: The University and Student Protests by Rod Ferguson (2017), p. 1-34. [pdf attached]

- 12:30 p.m. Lunch on your own
Several lunch places on High Street across from Sullivant Hall, plus Heirloom Café in Wexner Center for the Arts, or Student Union cafeteria Nearby

- 2:00 p.m. Ethnic Studies in Ohio Discussion. Each participant reports on ethnic studies at their campus, raises questions or topics for discussion, issues on which assistance needed, discussion of possible statewide collaborations.

- 3:30 p.m. Break

- 3:45 p.m. Discussion of The Borderlands of Culture by Ramón Saldívar, “Idioms of Race, Nation, Identity,” p. 318-343 [pdf attached]

- 4:45 p.m. Adjourn

- 7:00 p.m. Meet for Dinner Together at TBA

Lodging Info for those staying over: Hampton Inn in the Short North, Columbus. From the Hampton Inn, you can take COTA Bus #1 North on High to 18th street, cross street to Sullivant Hall.